Show HN: Backed by the internet's foremost language learning experts, Causa Learn is a reading app that uses the best literature from the best literature educators to build an intelligent reading app. - cyborg ===== pyrotechnick This is one of the coolest things I've seen. The longer I use this app the more I get out of it and the more I want it. I would pay for this, but I already have all the books on Audible. Great job! ----- surgen Looks neat. Q: Is there a non-dense Cantor set in  $(0,1)$ ? Is there a non-dense Cantor set in  $(0,1)$ ? I tried to construct such a set recursively, but found that it is very difficult to do. A: Let  $C$  be a Cantor set with more than one point. Choose any point  $x_0 \in C$ . For  $k \in \mathbb{N}$  define the set  $D_k = \{x \in C, x \in [x_0, x_0 + \frac{1}{2^k}]\}$ . The set  $C$  being dense in  $D_k$
